

Sentence Anagrams (print using 72pt, and cut out the words)

Beginner:

1. Mr Brown loves going to the cinema
2. Would you like to come to my party tomorrow?
3. My parents don't let me go out alone
4. Peter arrived at school at half past eight

Increasing complexity:

She loves me

He doesn't like pizza

Peter and Mary are married

I have a big black car

I love to go to the cinema

My mother takes me to school on Mondays

We don't go out because we have three children

The teacher gave the book to me when I arrived

Elementary:

1. My English family has two young children and I'm going to look after them
2. They walked through the rain to the front door of a big Victorian house
3. They bought two loaves of French bread and a large pot of jam for the weekend
4. Rosa had to wait in a long queue to pay for the book

Intermediate:

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.

Advanced:

1. The tension is especially pronounced in Riyadh, the country's largest city
2. A trip to the Middle East can present some significant challenges for women
3. What is less well known is just how radically their efforts are changing the global airline industry
4. The answer is that bigger incomes and more access to technology have taught the isolated minorities that they are better off