

Hi Anne, Martin here. I just wanted to let you know I got an interview for the management job I applied for with CTD.

Really!

I know, I can hardly believe it myself, especially as I sent the application form to the wrong address!

You're kidding! How could you do a thing like that?

I was addressing the envelope in a hurry and got mixed up. Luckily, I realized what I'd done and so I just rang up and asked the company for another form.

Yeah, but didn't they think it was strange?

Er... I don't think so. I just told them the original form was ripped, and they sent me a new one straight away. Oh, is that the time? I'm sorry, but I really have to go. I've got to make a quick call about the job. Anyway, why don't you ring me and maybe we could have lunch some time?

Sure. Good luck with the interview, by the way.

Thanks. Bye.
