- Do you have any manual cars?
- Manual? What do you mean, manual?
- With a gear lever.
- Ah, you mean stick-shift.
- That's it. Stick-shift.
- All our vehicles are automatic, ma'am. We don't have any with stick-shift. I mean, you need one hand to steer the vehicle and the other hand to adjust the stereo. Is that right?
- Yes. I'm not used to automatics.
- No hassle. Just put it in "Drive" and off you go.
- Oh, I've driven them before. My father has one. I just don't like them.
- Well, here it is. Bay 39. A nice compact. Yours is the silver one.
- Thank you.
- Er, ma'am?
- Yes?
- You're getting in the wrong door. That's the passenger seat.
- Oh dear. Yes, in Japan, we drive on the left.
- We drive on the right in the USA. Better get used to it.
- I will. I just wasn't thinking.
